I. GENERAL INFORMATION

1. INTRODUCTION

1.1 China Overview

China, one of world's most ancient civilizations, has a history dating back over 5,000 years. This has led to the country having an extraordinarily rich cultural heritage. As the world's largest developing country, China has seen remarkable progress in its economic and social development. Today's China is politically and socially stable, and economically prosperous, with its people's lives getting better each day.

1.1.1 Geography

China is located on the east side of Asia and the west edge of the Pacific Ocean. Covering a land area of about 9.6 million square kilometers, it features over 18,000 kilometers of continental coastline along its eastern and southern edges, and approximately 4.7 million square kilometers of inland and border seas. There are more than 7,600 islands of varying sizes in the sea area, among which the island of Taiwan, with an area of 35,798 square kilometers, is the largest.

1.1.2 Climate

Given its sheer size, it is perhaps not surprising that China has a range of climates. Most of the country lies in northern temperate zone that features a mild, continental monsoon climate and four distinct seasons.

1.1.3 Population, Ethnicity and Language

Population: 1,411.78 million.

Ethnicity: China is a multi-ethnic country with 56 ethnic groups in total.

Language: There are more than 80 local languages and about 30 Chinese writing systems. Mandarin

(also known as Putonghua) is the country's national language.

1.1.4 Religion

Religion: China is a multi-religious country. The main religions are Buddhism, Taoism, Islam, Catholicism and Christianity. Chinese citizens enjoy freedom of religious belief.

1.1.5 Others

China shares borders with 14 countries and is adjacent to eight countries by sea. The capital city is Beijing. China is comprised of provincial-level administrative divisions that can be further classified into: 4 municipalities directly under the central government, 23 provinces, 5 autonomous regions and 2 Special Administrative Regions.

Currency: The legal currency is renminbi (RMB), with yuan as the basic unit, and jiao and fen as fractions of this basic unit. One yuan is equal to 10 jiao and one jiao equal to 10 fen. Foreign currency can be freely exchanged in most hotels and banks on the Chinese mainland.

1.2 Tianjin Overview

Tianjin, abbreviated as "Jin" and historically referred to as Jingu or Jinmen, is one of the four municipalities directly under the Central Government of the People's Republic of China. As a national central city and megacity, Tianjin is situated on the western coast of the Pacific Ocean, in the northeastern part of the North China Plain, at the lower reaches of the Haihe River Basin. It borders the Bohai Sea to the east, the Yanshan Mountains to the north, and Beijing to the west, with Hebei Province surrounding it on all other sides. Tianjin sits at the confluence of the five major tributaries of the Haihe River, earning it titles such as the "Downstream Terminus of Nine Rivers" and a "Strategic Junction of River and Sea". The city experiences a warm temperate, semi-humid monsoon climate with distinct seasons. The municipality is administratively divided into 16 districts, with a total area of 11,966.45 square kilometers. As of the end of 2024, Tianjin's permanent resident population was 13.64 million.

Tianjin rose to prominence due to its strategic position in the imperial grain transport system. On December 23, 1404 (the 21st day of the 11th lunar month in the 2nd year of the Yongle era of the Ming Dynasty), the city was officially established, making it the only ancient Chinese city with a precisely documented founding date. Over more than 600 years, Tianjin has developed a distinctive blend of Eastern and Western architectural styles and a mix of historical and modern cultural elements.

Tianjin has emerged as a pivotal national center - a city celebrated for its rich history and culture, while serving as a modern maritime hub. As northern China's premier logistics and manufacturing center, it functions as a major international transportation nexus, a national leading advanced manufacturing and R&D base, the core international shipping hub in northern China, and a pilot zone for financial innovation and operations. Strategically positioned, Tianjin serves as a primary node on the China-Mongolia-Russia Economic Corridor, a strategic pivot on the Maritime Silk Road, a critical junction along the Belt and Road Initiative, and the easternmost starting point of the Eurasian Land Bridge. Additionally, it provides vital sea access for landlocked neighboring countries and remains the largest port city in northern China, while acting as both gateway and strategic buffer for the capital region.

1.3 International Airport

Tianjin Binhai International Airport (IATA: TSN, ICAO: ZBTJ) is located in Dongli District, approximately 13 kilometers from the city center. As a 4E-class civil international civil airport, it serves as a national air logistics hub, an international scheduled flight airport, a first-class international aviation port, and a major air cargo hub in China. At present, Tianjin Binhai International Airport operates 155 flight routes, with 3,647 scheduled flights per week, connecting 127 domestic and international cities.

1.4 Weather

Historical average temperatures for Tianjin in March range from 9°C–15°C.

1.5 Electricity

The electricity standard in China is 220V (50Hz).

1.6 Telephone

To call China from abroad, dial +86 (country code) followed by city code, followed by the local number.
